A Journey Through Time and Space

Meet Li Jun, a young and ambitious Chinese engineer, who embarks on an epic quest to build the first railway line in China. His journey begins in the bustling city of Shanghai, where he witnesses the arrival of British engineers and the transformative power of modern technology.

Driven by his unwavering determination and a deep yearning to modernize his country, Li Jun joins the construction team, facing countless challenges and forging unexpected friendships along the way. As he travels across the vast and rugged Chinese landscape, he encounters a kaleidoscope of cultures and traditions, gaining invaluable insights into his nation's rich history.

A Clash of Cultures and Ideals

The construction of the Iron Road becomes a catalyst for cultural exchange and碰撞 of ideals. Li Jun and his Chinese counterparts must navigate the complex dynamics between their ancient traditions and the rapidly evolving Western influences. They face prejudices, misunderstandings, and occasional hostility from both sides.

Yet, amidst the tensions, bonds of friendship and mutual respect emerge. Li Jun's interactions with British engineers, such as the enigmatic Mr. Smith, challenge his preconceptions and foster a deeper understanding of different perspectives.
